Loretta Jones M.A., Th.D, is the founder and CEO of Healthy African American Families II (HAAF) and an Associate Professor at Charles R. Drew University of Medicine & Science. Her career as a civil rights activist, health policy advocate, and social architect has spanned more than 40 years. In an effort to level the playing field for all people, Dr. Jones continues her unyielding commitment as a change agent against disparities in human health, development, and opportunity. She is a current and past co-investigator of numerous NIH and CDC research projects, and serves on the National Institutes of Health Precision Medicine Institutional Review Board, the University of California Los Angeles Institutional Review Board and is a past member of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill CTSA External Advisory Board. She was the first African American non-medical woman to be a lead author in JAMA. She is also published in Ethnicity & Disease, and is a co-author on more than 60 peer-reviewed articles in other journals.
